DESCRIPTION OF MEDICAL USE

Compounded Acyclovir for Shingles is a topical or oral formulation used to manage shingles (herpes zoster) by inhibiting viral replication, reducing the severity and duration of outbreaks. It is often customized to include additional ingredients for enhanced absorption or symptom relief. This formulation can help alleviate pain, itching, and discomfort associated with the viral rash.

Compounded Gabapentin for Shingles is used for managing nerve pain associated with shingles by modulating nerve activity and reducing pain signals. It can be formulated in various dosage forms, such as topical creams, capsules, or suspensions, to meet individual patient needs. This customization allows for targeted pain relief while minimizing systemic side effects.
